DETAILED ACTION

Drawings

1. The drawings are objected to because “a base that defines a set of holes having the same pattern as a second subset of the plurality of threaded holes” is not clearly shown in the drawings; noting figures 2, 5, and 3a appear to be inconsistent; the base 52 appears have a smaller pattern than the plate 32. Corrected drawing sheets in compliance with 37 CFR 1.121(d) are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. Any amended replacement drawing sheet should include all of the figures appearing on the immediate prior version of the sheet, even if only one figure is being amended. The figure or figure number of an amended drawing should not be labeled as “amended.” If a drawing figure is to be canceled, the appropriate figure must be removed from the replacement sheet, and where necessary, the remaining figures must be renumbered and appropriate changes made to the brief description of the several views of the drawings for consistency. Additional replacement sheets may be necessary to show the renumbering of the remaining figures. Each drawing sheet submitted after the filing date of an application must be labeled in the top margin as either “Replacement Sheet” or “New Sheet” pursuant to 37 CFR

1.121(d). If the changes are not accepted by the examiner, the applicant will be notified and informed of any required corrective action in the next Office action.

The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 1-5, 7, and 13-18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Whaley, US Patent 4,648,151, in view of Hamilton, US Patent 5,016,930. A door piston to doorjamb interface apparatus comprising an elongated plate 40 having a plurality of holes formed therein; and a bracket 18 including a base and transverse support member affixed to the base, the base including a set of holes configured in the same pattern as a subset of the plurality of threaded holes of the plate whereupon, when the set of holes and the subset of threaded holes are aligned, a threaded bolt inserted through each of the set of holes can threadably mate with one of the subset of threaded holes thereby securing the base to the plate, wherein the support member defines a pin receiving hole 22 that is spaced from the base and which is configured to receive a pin there through for pivotally securing a connecting rod 20 or a housing of a door piston to the support member. The support member defines a gap with a pair of aligned pin receiving holes, as conventional in the art.

Whaley discloses the claimed invention except the holes in the plate being threaded holes. However, it is very old and well known in the art of connectors to use such threaded holes to firmly join two threaded members together. Hamilton provides threaded holes receiving screw means. It would have been obvious at the time the invention was made for one skilled in the art to have included in the design of Whaley such a modification, as generally taught by Hamilton, for the purpose of providing known means for firmly join two threaded members together.

Allowable Subject Matter

4. Claims 8-12 are allowed.
5. Claim 6 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

6. The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter: the prior art of record fails to teach nor fairly suggest a door piston to door jamb interface apparatus, in the entire claimed combination, including three subsets of threaded holes having the same pattern as the pattern of holes of a base plate, as claimed. Nor is the method of claim 8 taught or fairly suggested by the prior art.
